

21 May 2025 A tiring day and night that I spent yesterday, a fever that won't let me be and an illness that won't let me be. The money is dwindling and so are the hopes, where am I supposed to go and look for? when there's all but happiness. Be alone to be happy, be happy to be alone. This is all there is irrespective of what struggles, impediments I encounter, I shall strive to be free and live independently - it's easier said than done. I cannot go back to live with my parents again. All these flows; flow like water on what not - I don't get it. I sway, I frown, I drowse and I slack - that's who I'm. I cannot seduce a woman or anyone - I just have to let myself be - all that there is - nothing - no pride, no honor, no nothing - I scrape the mud of the earth, look down and grovel - there's no flight, no leap, no nothing - live with it - that's best there could possibly be - stop swooning, stop dreaming, stop fuck stop fooling around, and stop hoping. Losing all hope is freedom. Not sure when that'll penetrate your thick skull, Girsch.